

Top 3 News Items!

1. There are 9 multi-day configuration sessions booked between now and October 22. These sessions will bring key stakeholders, the project team and specialty consultants from Ellucian together to start to design the new system.
2. The project team has been busy meeting with stakeholders across the Acadia campus to gather requirements to feed into these configuration discussions.
3. To assist people with adapting to the change, we are using a model called ADKAR* (see below). To date, 56 people here at Acadia have taken an ADKAR survey. This allows people to have a conversation about where they are on the change continuum and how they can seek support to move to the next step. We will continue to survey groups across campus. If you are interested please reach out through the website.
